Emory University
Atlanta, GA
Vacancy number 56166BR

The Institute for Quantitative Theory and Methods at Emory University invites applications for a full-time Lecturer position in Statistics, to begin Fall 2016. Initial appointment is for a period of three years with renewals and promotions possible within the lecture-track as detailed in the Emory College of Arts and Sciences Guidelines for Appointment of Lecture-track Faculty:

http://college.emory.edu/home/administration/policy/lecturer.html

Responsibilities include Emory’s standard lecture-track faculty teaching load of five courses, supporting administration of the undergraduate program through advising undergraduates, and participating in the life of the college through committees and other forms of academic service.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Statistics or a Ph.D. with an emphasis on Statistics in a related field (e.g., Economics, Anthropology, Psychology, Political Science, Sociology). Candidates must be excellent teachers, effective advisors, and have the potential to administer our undergraduate program. Preference may be given to applicants who can contribute to our Quantitative Sciences (QSS) major through teaching, advising, and curriculum development. Information about the QSS major may be found here: http://catalog.college.emory.edu/department-program-major/quantitative-social-science.html. Candidates should have completed their degrees by Fall 2016.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, official transcript in PDF format, applicant’s most recent teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation. To apply, please go to this Lecturer Position and create a profile. Reference letters should be sent directly by the reference writer and must be emailed to IQTM@emory.edu. Writing samples may include a paper or chapter of the applicant’s dissertation. We will begin the review process October 30th, 2015 and applications received up to 30 days after review begins will be given full consideration. Emory University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.
